

Martin Odening, Professor, Department of Agricultural Economics, Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin, Germany

MARTIN ODENING, PH.D. is head of the Department of Agricultural Economics at Humboldt University Berlin. He joined Humboldt University as a Professor of Farm Management in 1994. Prior to this appointment he worked as a Professor at Martin Luther University Halle-Wittenberg. He received his Diploma in Agricultural Economics in 1983 and his doctorate degree in 1987 from the University of Goettingen (Germany). His research interests include risk management, agricultural finance and investment, and efficiency analyses. He has published numerous journal articles and conference contributions addressing these topics. Since 2009 Odening is a member of the collaborative research center on Economic Risk at Humboldt University. He is also coordinator of a research unit on structural change in agriculture funded by the German Research Foundation.

Professor Odening served as an advisor for the German Government, the FAO, and other institutions with a regional focus on East Europe. In addition to his research interests he is member and currently speaker of the review board of the German Research Foundation.

Title: Challenges of Insuring Weather Risk in Agriculture